At the investigation in Brooklyn by the sub-committee of Congress in reference to the purchase of the Washington street site for the new Federal building, yesterday, Charles Dennis testified that he hought the site large enough, but the situation was ur seb0.000 would have been a good price for the washington street alta.

But Mayor John W. Hunter regarded the Washington Street alta as not worth anything like $400,000. He would not have loaned half that amount on it. The property is Myrtle avenue and Washington street would have been satisfactory to the suble.

James Howe considered the Duich Church property tha most decirable.

Rg. Commissioner John French considered $275,000 would have been a large price for the Washington street property. Both Washington and Johnson streets were too marrow and the grade was too steep.

August Dauth of 190 Ludlow street, a rugged August Dauth of 190 Ludlow street, a rugged derman, has been on a spree for a week. His wife had him leeked up in Essex Market prison yesterday. He had not been in a cell more than an hour when Sergeant Long beard a great smashing of class out in the prison. He ascertained that it came from Dauth's cell, in which a large grated window. The Sergeant found Dauth standing in front of the broken glass and multering: "You will put me in prison! Then I'll kill you. Take that," and he drove his bleeding and mangled arm against the lagged pieces of glass. He seemed to believe that he was beating his wife.

More Kin than Could be Expected.

Citations were issued to no less than fifty persons yesterday, summoning them to appear before the Surrogate to make good their claims to the estate of John Russell, the miser printer, who died a year ago, thering a fortune of 800,000. The alleged next of kin the of all ages, and profess to bear to the deceased about every relation but that of parents and wife. The marries are small Russell, and they live all over, some in angiand, and the rest scattered through the States, from lands to California. It is likely that the brothers and elected Russell, who live in England, will get the money.

Charles Charles's Long Term.

Thomas E. Fitzgerald, saloon keeper, found Charles Charles, a Frenchman of St. Louis, in his hall-way at 119 Lercy street early on the morning of the 9th mit, and tried to prevent his secape. Charles draw a inite and stabled Fitzgerald in the face, neck, and bands. Fitzgerald held on to him until Foliceman Nash arrested him. In the General Sessions vesterday Charles pleaded grilty. Attached to the papers was a note nrying the District Attorney to try the case, as Fitzgerald was about to go to Canada on his wedding trip. Recorder Smyth sentenced Charles to State prison for len years.

The Col. Goshen of Lobsters.

Fishermen around Fulton Market crowded around a big lobeter on Fish Commissioner Blackford's fish stand yesterday morning. "He is one of the biggest I ever see," eaid a grizzly old coast fisherman. The lobeter was two feet iong, and he tail apread out as large as a lady's fan. He syes stuck out like marbles grad for the control of the Old Tom and Young Tom Stand by Each Other Tom Smith, Jr., Tom Smith, Sr., and a stranger had a rough-and tumble fight at Horatio and Washington streets on Sunday night. Policeman Cooper arrested young Tom, and old Tom licked the officer. Than lowjer tried to make a prisoner of eld Tom and young Timi interfered. Finally Cooper got assistance, and took pill Tom and young Tom to the station house. Justice Gorman fined each Tom $10 yesterday.

A jury in Judge Van Brunt's court yesterday gave Sallor Fred Wishman a verdiet for $100 against his Captain, George Asbbury, who, it is alleged, struck Wick-man on the head with a belaying pin and triced him up to the rigging.

"Got owid from mine blace, Italianer," said Conrad Loubat, the ponderous proprietor of grabbed up a bottle of seltser and turned a stream upon the neck of Antonio Plisto, the 12-year-old bootblack. Antonio fled dripping with water. Outside the door he yelled. "Dam-a Dutchaman!" and shied his kit through the window. It fell on the floor inside, and the
